A LAW DEGREE IS THE GOLDEN TICKET TO OPENING EMPLOYMENT DOORS.
By graduating from Concordia University School of Law, you will know how to learn, how to ask questions, how to analyze, and how to understand business. In short, you will have a sought-after skillset that translates well into a multitude of fields and has universal appeal.

IN GOVERNMENT
A law degree can lead to a career as a public policy advisor, foreign service diplomat, public affairs representative, and speech writer. Ambassador to the United Nations? Absolutely. Think tank contributor? Definitely. And if you read the biographies of most of the people who have served as an elected official, you will find “lawyer” as the educational background for everyone from mayors, council members, and city managers to representatives, senators, and even the President of the United States.

IN LAW
Being an attorney is much broader than being a trial lawyer. You can be a transactional attorney, contract negotiator, entertainment agent, or legal book writer. You could be a sports agent or mediator, a public affairs representative or crime reporter. You could also be a recruiter for a law firm.

IN EDUCATION
A law degree is excellent training to become a college political science instructor, as well as a law school professor or dean.

IN BUSINESS
The business world of today is filled with lawyers. Contract negotiators and human resources specialists. Lobbyists and compliance managers. Venture capitalists, mediators, and even high-powered CEOs. Business professionals with law degrees can also be found helping with mergers and acquisitions. And you can find in-house counsel at businesses large and small – local, regional, national, and international.

IN THE COMMUNITY
If you want to start a non-profit organization or work at a foundation, a law degree can help you reach your goal. Being a lawyer can also be advantageous for those looking to become a grant writer, community organizer, or children’s rights advocate. Having a law degree makes you in-demand at community organizations, Chambers of Commerce, and non-profit boards, as well.
Get Your Juris Doctorate at Concordia Law

Concordia University School of Law is a groundbreaking law school designed from the ground up to prepare you for success. Our mentorship program, for example, pairs every first-year student with an attorney or judge who acts as a support system, providing insight, knowledge, and advice. Our faculty is passionate about teaching, dedicated to helping you pass the bar and committed to training practice-ready lawyers. And our campus places state-of-the-art technology and a design conducive to learning just a stone’s throw from the bulk of Boise’s legal community. Whether your goal is to become a practicing attorney, to run a non-profit advocating for refugees, to open and manage a small business, or to guide a corporation through mergers and acquisitions, Concordia’s mission of preparing leaders for the transformation of society will serve you well and help you achieve your goals.

A City You Can Call Home

Boise, Idaho, home of Concordia University School of Law, is a thriving capital city with an amazing quality of life and low cost of living. Concordia Law is housed in a $10 million, state-of-the-art 54,000 square foot building that features open spaces, natural light, and warm woods throughout. Along with classrooms, offices, gathering spaces, and common areas, you’ll find mock trial and moot court rooms that mirror actual courtroom size and design. There’s a secure bike garage and student showers. Plus a law library for the 21st century, created from scratch and LEED certified for energy efficiency. All located just a short walk to the county courthouse, state Supreme Court, appellate court and the state’s largest law firms.

Next Step

BEGIN YOUR FUTURE IN LAW AND CONTACT US:

EMAIL: lawadmission@cu-portland.edu
CALL: 208-639-5440
APPLY: law.cu-portland.edu/apply